Strand/category	Western Balkans cooperation projects
Deadline

Cultural operator(s)

Name	Serbian-Aromanian association "Lunjina" (ser. Srpsko-cincarsko društvo "Lunjina")
Short description	Serbian-Aromanian association "Lunjina" was founded in 1991, with a goal to preserve the Aromanian name and to promote and commemorate the impact of the Aromanian nation in the cultural and economic developments of the Balkan Peninsula. Eventually, this society developed into a movement that aims to promote and affirm Aromanian folk customs, spiritual culture, art and literature. The Aromanians and their descendants have been made aware of their contributions to a better life in Serbia in the past centuries, especially to the civil society development. Therefore, the members of "Lunjina" association aim to create the conservation foundation of their traditions, songs, dance and religion.

Project

Field(s)	Research of culture, traditions, customs, history and anthropology of (Vlach romance speaking) Balkan ethnicities
Description	Vlachs – Forgotten People of the Balkans The project will refer to the forgotten minority in the territory of the Western Balkans – Vlachs or Aroman minority, which grew in the 19th century across Europe. They are almost forgotten although they were carriers of economic modernization in Serbia and other Balkan countries in the mid-19 century. Their knowledge of international trade, language, accounts, tools, and of books and literacy, marked the cultural life of many European countries. Although they didn't have their own country, they were present throughout the Balkans and Europe. The context of the project lays in this migration flows of the Vlachs and their influence in different European countries.

Planned activities:

- International cultural and scientific conference
- Exhibition about the Vlachs
- Preparing publication and collection of scientific papers
